

Britain's multi-racial nightmare ...

MOB RAMPAGE IN BRADFORD

HUNDREDS of Asian rioters went on a two day rampage in the Manningham area of Bradford early in June. Police were bombarded with bricks and petrol bombs for two nights, with shops looted, and cars set on fire. The disturbances were some of the worst ever seen in Britain.

The riots began after police were called following complaints of disorderly behaviour among a large group of Asians near a mosque. One youth kicked a police car. When police attempted to arrest troublemakers an argument ensued, after which two men retreated into local homes, and were arrested after scuffles.

Within an hour and a half 300 people had assembled outside the local Lawcroft House police station demanding the release of the two men, and six others who had also been arrested following further scuffles. Cars at a nearby BMW showroom were then fire-bombed, and shop windows smashed as police in full riot gear attempted to restore order.

MP DEMANDS RELEASE OF RIOTERS

Bradford West Labour MP Max Madden, with local Councillors, met police the next day, and demanded the release of all the arrested men. When the police refused, a mob hundreds strong tore down a wall outside the police station and hurled bricks at police. By late evening a Citroen garage had been firebombed, and rioting had spread to the city centre with shops looted and windows smashed. At one BN SPECIAL REPORT stage the police withdrew from one area leaving the Citroen garage to come under attack again from petrol bombs. Eleven more arrests were made, including three men who are alleged to have been caught with petrol bomb making equipment.

The rioters, many of whom were masked, were urged on by ringleaders who shouted 'Let's show the police what Asians can do' through megaphones. White Trotskyite agitators mingled with the mob waving 'Stop Police Racism' placards.

£500,000 in damage was caused during the two days of disorder, which followed prolonged tension in the area. Asian 'vigilante' gangs had been roaming the streets calling for prostitutes, and their pimps - many of whom are West Indian - to be removed from the area. Threatening behaviour by the gangs is now endemic to the area. A fireman needed plastic surgery to his face after being viciously assaulted by Asians recently.

POLICE APOLOGISE TO RIOTERS

Two days after the riots the a senior police officer - clearly under enormous political pressure - made on TV what was in effect a public apology to the rioters. He said they apologised for anything they 'might have done' to annoy Asians!

Middle class white people in the area have had their illusions destroyed by the riots. As in so many areas, many had believed the constant propaganda about 'racial harmony'. All the businesses ransacked were non-Pakistani, including Indian and Jewish premises. Local Hindus said that their community had played no part in the riots, which were carried out by Muslims, and that white right-wing groups would benefit.

MANNINGHAM: OUR VERDICT

Scarcely a week now goes by in Britain without a riot by one immigrant group or another. Most are systematically ignored or downplayed by our national media, and pass unnoticed.

How many BN readers, for example, are aware that Turkish militants stormed the Turkish Chamber of Commerce in London's Finsbury during June, and that there were 32 arrests after riot police surrounded the building?

When an event like the Manningham riot occurs, too large to be ignored, there is a sense of surprise and shock among the public. The public think - as it is intended they should - that something unusual has happened.

Most disturbances are indeed on a much smaller scale. Society is being eaten away not by very large scale riots, but by the drip on stone of progressive social breakdown - all the worse for its creeping effects.

People persuade themselves that the pace of decline is such that they can safely leave the problems for future generations to address. Many societies in the past kidded themselves along similar lines shortly before they were overwhelmed by complete disaster.

Too many events like Manningham would alert the people of Britain to their true situation - a struggle for our land between our native population and those from elsewhere who will take it if they are able. It is both the oldest and newest story in the world - with a new and terrifying feature. At all costs no one should be allowed to realise what is happening!

Senior police officers will appease any lawless element if it will prevent outbreaks of too visible lawlessness. When the husband of the Director of Public Prosecutions was nearly killed by an immigrant gang recently, outside his Camden home, Barbara Mills assured the media that race was not involved.

What then is the lesson of Manningham?

Simply the age old struggle for land. Those Asians with a common heritage and culture intend to assert their territorial domination over an area of Britain, now that their numbers locally are large enough to permit it.

It was ever so.

FUNDAMENTALISTS CALL FOR ISLAMIC BRITAIN IN BRADFORD

A MILITANT ISLAMIC GROUP, whose objective is to set up an Islamic state in Britain, has begun recruiting in riot-torn Bradford.

The Party of Liberation, which has been banned from many Universities in Britain, wants to destroy 'corrupted' Britain, and calls for a war against the Jews.

Within a few days of the Manningham riots, the group flew in a leading member from Los Angeles to speak at a meeting in the area. The meeting took as its subject 'Lessons from the LA Riots - The Islamic Method to confront Western Society'.

RED HERRING

The Party of Liberation aims to destroy 'the disease of democracy and freedom', and says that one in five people in Bradford are Muslim, and that they want an Islamic state.

Bradford leader of the party, Farid Kassim, 32, says that the issue of prostitution in Bradford, which has been partly blamed for the riots, is a 'red herring'. "It's an excuse for the Muslim community to express their frustration with living in Britain. Some Muslims are licking up to the authorities. They are coconuts - brown on the outside and white on the inside" he says.

Kassim says that the views of fundamentalists like himself are in conflict with the West. Democracy can easily transform itself into anarchy - as in Los Angeles. He invited leading American fundamentalist Ibraheem Abdul Razak, 25, to speak in Manningham's Lumb Lane.

Razak says that British law oppresses Muslims, and that the only solution is to replace it with Muslim law. "The LA riots can happen here" he says.

LEVER

BNP spokesman Michael Newland told the Sunday Sport a few days before the riots: "Once the Muslims have got rid of the prostitutes they will use it as a lever to get their other demands. They will object to women walking around with bare arms."

Local police hit back at the BNP's claim, saying that the campaign against prostitutes had nothing to do with the Muslim religion.

Labour Councillor demands 'blacks only' Health Centre

A LABOUR COUNCILLOR in London's Haringey has demanded that Euro cash should be spent on a 'blacks only' Health Centre.

Mavis Lambie says: "I don't want a white person caring for me." The disabled Councillor wants money from the EC spent on medical facilities employing only black doctors and other staff, and giving treatment only to blacks.

She says that black people often feel uncomfortable being treated by white doctors, and that they do not have enough skill to treat diseases which are particularly common in non-whites - like sickle cell anaemia.

The centre she wants would provide information specifically tailored for non-whites, and home helps of the same culture as patients.

"I would prefer to see a black doctor, and Asians would prefer to see an Asian doctor because of their culture" says Councillor Lambie.

Readers of BN in Haringey might like to write to Councillor Lambie and ask whether she supports 'whites only' medical facilities as well.

Many white people would like to see a white doctor, but in many inner city areas so many immigrant doctors have been appointed that they do not have the choice. Will white Labour Councillors in Haringey now be campaigning for a 'whites only' Health Centre?

You know the answer!

White Police Officer sues for racial discrimination

A WHITE former Police Officer is suing for wrongful dismissal before an Industrial Tribunal and says that he was sacked for being white.

David Kirkby says he was sacked as a constable by Notts police, while an Asian in the same position was kept on. A Nottinghamshire Industrial Tribunal heard that Mr. Kirkby's dismissal was 'knee jerk' tactics and favouritism.

A Police Federation spokesman, representing the sacked officer, said that police were fearful of the problems that dismissal of an Asian officer might cause.

Mr. Kirkby told the tribunal that he and the Asian officer, Simon Labana, had both been told that they were not making the grade as probationary constables. He was sacked, however, while Mr. Labana's probationary period was extended. He asked for an extension like Mr. Labana's, but this was refused.

Mr. Labana had told senior officers that his poor performance was due to 'racial harassment', and was given a 'fresh start'.

The Police Federation spokesman, David Saunders, said that the force went out of its way to accommodate Mr. Labana, while Mr. Kirkby, who had suffered personal difficulties, was dismissed.

Counsel for the police denied that Mr. Kirkby had been unequally treated. The case continues.

What is happening to our police?

SPECIAL COMMENT BY BN POLITICAL STAFF

Last month a serving police officer wrote to a national newspaper. He said that the police were no longer there to protect the public. Senior officers were concerned only for their careers.

In London, as we report in this issue, the Drugs Squad has been placed on a three-day week. Police energies are increasingly applied to internal 'political correctness campaigns' - with their inevitable consequences for morale among the vast majority of serving officers who simply want to get on with the job of normal policing - which they saw themselves as having joined up to perform.

The Major Government's Sheehy investigation into policing was brutally frank about the disillusion with senior officers within the ranks of the police.

All over the country ordinary people complain that the police are ineffective in controlling lawlessness. Vigilantes have begun to appear in some areas, who, unlike those in the Manningham area of Bradford, have no political or racial agenda, and are simply ordinary people enraged by uncontrolled violence and theft.

After two days of rioting and looting in Manningham senior police apologised publicly to the Asian community for any offence that might have been given to them. That is the condition of policing in Britain today - apologies to rioters!

The appearance of underground literature within the police is another sign of an organisation in trouble. A periodical called 'Tomorrow's Job', modelled on the official police magazine 'The Job', has begun to circulate among the police, causing fury in the senior ranks. Homes were raided recently in an attempt to suppress it. One newspaper thought incorrectly that it was produced by the BNP.

'Tomorrows Job' says that the destabilising of British society by immigration, combined with the decline of the industrial base and mass unemployment, has created terror in the 'Establishment'. Britain is a powder keg which could easily erupt into a spiral of public order catastrophes.

If that were to happen the 'Establishment' might well be fatally wounded. Thus, at the behest of the Home Office, the police service now has as its top priority doing whatever is necessary to prevent uprisings.

Since this policy was created, says 'Tomorrow's Job', to achieve a political rather than a policing objective, it necessitates a change of culture within the police service - and a change of top personnel.

Thus the extraordinary position that in Britain rioters are given apologies! One Chief Constable said on BBC radio not long ago that 'confronting' racist and sexist police officers was more important to him than the clear up rate!

As Richard Littlejohn wrote in The Sun, the present posture of the police is that nothing must be done to upset the 'community'. The 'community' in question is not ordinary British people, but loud-mouthed left-wingers, and any group which might cut up rough if the law is applied to them.

The whole establishment is afflicted with a holy terror of controversy, paralysing effective action and demoralising the lower ranks of the public services who become cynical at the failure of leadership from those above.

The police are particular victims of the new culture. The argument is that a greater degree of controversial disorder will result if the demands of the mob are not met. That is tantamount to telling the public that the answer to extortion is to pay protection money.

The mob understands very well the psychology of those now in authority, and is constantly testing to see how much further it can push. In some areas the police have clearly given up in the face of demands which they are required to satisfy for political reasons.

In this issue of BN we report on how the area near a London Mosque is a near 'no go' region of the city for white people. A white man recently told Talk Radio UK how he had been told by police that he should not have been in the Manningham area of Bradford, when he complained about a street attack on him before the rioting.

If the political system does not soon make it clear that the rule of law is to be maintained, no matter what the controversy in reasserting authority, we will have rule by the demands of the mob in Britain.

LAWLESS BRITAIN .. LAWLESS BRITAIN .. LAWLESS BRITAIN .. LAWLESS BRITAIN ..

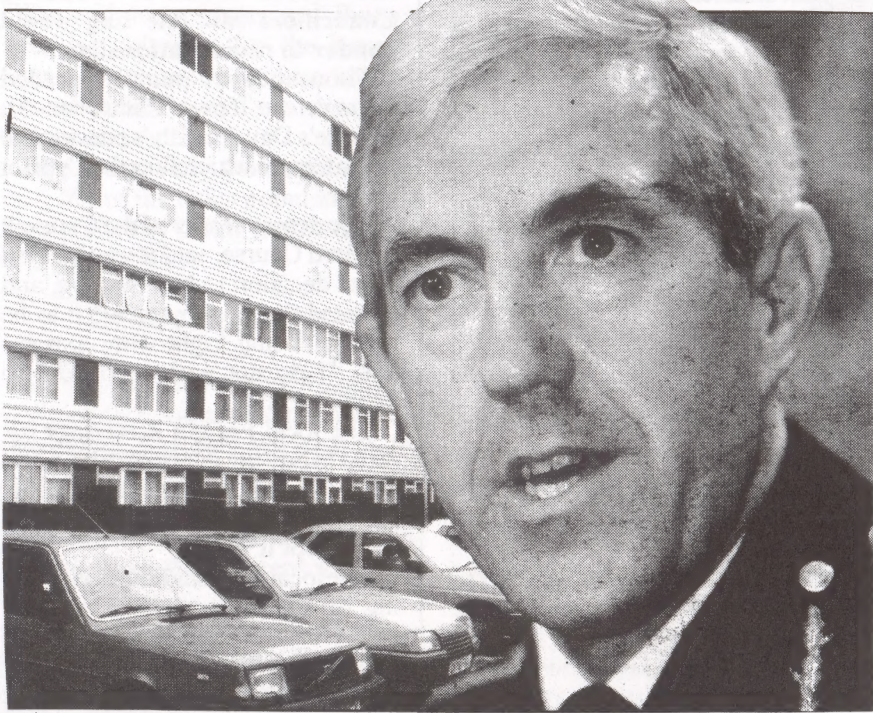

POLICE CENSOR GANG SEX ATTACK ON CHILDREN

POLICE in London deliberately suppressed news of a horrific sex attack on children in the high immigrant Tottenham area - causing widespread public anger.

Three schoolgirls aged eight, 10, and 12 were chased into council flats by a gang of youths at 4pm. on a Sunday afternoon recently. The youths tried to throw one frantically struggling victim to her death over a fifth-floor balcony. Another child broke free and tried to run for help, but was cornered in a lift, stripped, and viciously sexually assaulted.

For four days police prevented the attack on Reed Road Estate from becoming public knowledge - leaving the gang free to strike again with parents in ignorance of the risks to their children.

The attack was only made public, and an appeal made for witnesses, in a press announcement by Scotland Yard on the following Thursday afternoon. The racial origins of the gang have not been announced.

LONDON POLICE CHIEF PAUL CONDON - seen against the flats on Tottenham's Reed Road Estate where three children were attacked. 'Political correctness' is his first priority.

Somers Town race fights

RUNNING fights between gangs of white and Asian youths are now almost a daily event in the Somers Town area of London - near which Richard Everitt was murdered last year by Asians.

In the latest incident a large gang of Bengalis stoned a youth club. Car windscreens were then smashed in two hours of running battles after a recent truce broke down. One resident has catalogued 27 outbreaks of fighting adjacent to his home since last January. Other local people speak of 'no-go' areas and of being afraid to go out at night. A school was closed recently after a student was injured.

Guns fear on Walsall estate

EXTRA police have been drafted in after fears that Walsall's Coalpool estate could explode, and reports of guns circulating.

Daily fighting between blacks and whites is worsening, according to local residents, and patrolling police have been threatened. Some families have quit the estate in fear. One man was threatened with a knife and told to leave the area by a gang.

Inspector Dave Latham of Walsall Police said: "There is a strange undercurrent of nastiness, and extra patrols are working to keep the lid on." The local Walsall Advertiser described the situation as 'race war'.

Kid's sports day under threat

A TOWN'S biggest sporting event is under threat after Asian youths terrorised Brierfield & Reedley Children's Sports Day near Burnley.

The event, which has been held since the 1950s, was invaded this year by a gang who jostled and abused children half their age, as well as adult organisers.

Sports Committee member and Councillor Margaret Parker said an appeal to the local mosque committee would be made in an attempt to prevent further trouble. The Brierfield Mosque Committee had earlier made an unsuccessful appeal for calm in the town.

Three day week for London's Drug Squad

SCOTLAND YARD'S Drugs Squad has been placed on a three-day week to save money. 100 officers in the squad have been told to suspend their activities against major drug suppliers from Thursday onwards each week.

The decision has left drug dealers free to sell crack, heroin, and ecstasy with almost complete impunity for several days a week. Despite drugs being one of the worst threats to life in the capital, the budget of the specialist police who are in the front line of the war against narcotics has been slashed.

recently retired from the force's International and Organised Crime Squad, warned of the threat to police manpower. "The cash cuts and tight budgets are hitting all areas, including murder inquiries," he said. "Everything has to be costed down to the last penny. No one knows where this is going to end." One murder squad has been told that their investigations must depend on 'goodwill' since no money is available for overtime payments.

NIGHTMARE

Some angry detectives have written to their MPs about the suspension of drug squad activities, as Britain's drug nightmare threatens to spiral out of control.

Forces throughout the country are cutting back on the war against narcotics, with Regional Crime Squad officers forced to go on leave for weeks after major operations.

BAIL

All over the country drugs dealers are now permitted to openly solicit for custom. People living in residential streets find it impossible to get any action taken to remove dealers, who stand on corners in full view of police and residents. Well publicised police purges in some areas simply push the drug sellers to move to other neighbourhoods - often only a short distance away.

The dealers know that, if convicted, they face only short holidays in prison. In North London's Camden area, police complained recently that magistrates refused to even impose restrictive bail conditions on most arrested drug dealers - let alone imprisoning them for the protection of the public.

TAUNTS

Drug dealers are now openly taunting police about their absence at weekends. "We are in the galling position of having well-known drug dealers taunting us that they are keeping their main business for the weekend. We have been given specific instructions not to target major dealers because we haven't the budget to devote the time to them. This is not a job we can do over an eight-hour shift. To take out main dealers is a time-consuming operation" said one police officer.

Only weeks ago the Government announced a new initiative against drugs! Shortly before, new police budgets were introduced, with Central London worst affected by restrictions on spending. One veteran drug squad detective told the press: "It is time the public knew the reality behind the much-trumpeted war against drugs."

BN CURRYWATCH

'Special Tonight Sir - Smash Your Head In Curry'

BN's 'Currywatch' is yet again in the Midlands this month - home not only of the Lye International Tandoori, which was fined £2,600 for slug trails in the food, but also of the curry empire owned by Mr. Khaled Choudbury who is currently serving imprisonment for VAT fraud along with his partner.

The Midlands is certainly a centre for remarkable curry eating experiences - as a local ladies' rounders club discovered when they visited the Akash Restaurant in London Road, Leicester!

The diners complained that chicken curry was cold, meals were taken away before they were eaten, and about an £8 charge for two lagers and a Coke. They refused to pay the bill.

Leicester Magistrates heard that one of the ladies was told: "You will pay it, or I'll smash your head in." The restaurant owner then signalled his staff into the attack. About fifteen staff came flying out of the kitchen armed with hockey sticks and baseball bats, and set about not only the customers in the rounders club party, but everyone in the restaurant! The Stormcurry Squad followed escaping customers into the street and continued to beat them until police arrived.

Three men, Shamsul Hacque 52, Mohammed Uddin 19, and a 14-year-old appeared before the court charged with affray.

●Chop Suey Watch - Diners at a Chinese restaurant in London's lefty Hampstead area recently experienced a new eating experience. As they were tucking in to their Sweet and Sour, a gang, from the notorious Chinese Triad protection racketeers, burst in and demolished the restaurant around the astonished diners!

Labour Councillor's Sex Shame

A READING COURT heard recently how a leading local Labour Councillor was caught with his trousers down performing a sex act with another man in the disabled toilets at Reading Station.

Councillor Tony Page, 41-year-old Chairman of the Labour Group on Reading Borough Council, admitted a charge of committing an act of gross indecency with another man, and received a one year conditional discharge. Page, of Castle Hill, Reading, is also Chairman of the Council's Reading Buses.

Reading's Labour Council is notorious for its anti-white attitudes. A huge Council funded mural, in the town centre, shows blacks machine-gunning whites, with the slogan 'The struggle continues'.

One leading Councillor has been seen at an official Council event in the company of well known local drugs dealers.

The convicted Councillor will probably now be promoted to Labour MP for his 'politically correct' activities. Want to get on in British politics? Forget all about services to the nation! Try the public toilets at Reading Railway Station.

ULSTER HIT BY WAVE OF RACE VIOLENCE

'Brink of explosion after cease fire'

TURU ARUTURA: Plans Ulster Africa Centre

RACIAL FRICTION in Ulster is near explosion point following the cease fire last year. The Royal Ulster Constabulary has set up a special unit in Belfast to deal with racial incidents. Pro-white graffiti have appeared, and as usual the racial tension is being blamed on patriotic groups rather than being the inevitable result of forced race mixing.

The number of ethnic minorities in Ulster is at present only 22,000, and the Government intends to extend the Race Relations Act to Northern Ireland. BN confidently predicts that the Government is paving the way for immigrants to flood in with full official assistance.

South Africa born Tura Arutura (pictured) plans to set up the province's first Africa Centre. He says: "The people of Ulster are openly racist and don't even know it. We need to educate Irish people about the black man. They have yet to grasp the concept of difference. Something needs to be done."

Clearly the next stage will be Government 'anti-racist' initiatives to re-educate white people in the error of their ways. Many people in other areas of Britain are now very well educated about the black man, and no part of the UK must be permitted to be excluded from the re-education process.

The RUC says they will have to decide on what constitutes a 'racial attack'. In London it is, of course, anything which any complainant says is a 'racial attack'. Two Africans in Belfast's Queens area say they were beaten by a gang recently, and forced to leave their rented accommodation.

Asian Bishop of Rochester demands more immigration

THE recently appointed Bishop of Rochester has called for more immigrants to be allowed into Britain. Asian Dr. Michael Nazir-Ali says that employers face 'skills shortages', and more labour is needed which can only be obtained from abroad.

The millions of unemployed in this country will be surprised to learn that skills are in short supply, with highly skilled people in every area of the economy filling the dole queues! Immigration should be encouraged says the Bishop, however, with the introduction of what he describes as 'positive immigration policies'.

Perhaps a clue to the 'skill shortages' may be drawn from the fact that most employers refuse to take on those over 35 - and then some claim they cannot get staff! Conveniently most immigrants just happen to be under 35.

'Skills shortages' says former Marxist

The Government has refused to do anything to stop the two-thirds of our workforce who are over 35 being progressively dumped on the scrap heap, and replaced by immigrants. Age limits in jobs are a back door method of getting white people out, and also illegal under the Government's own indirect discrimination legislation.

One Tory MP, Cyril Townsend, who represents Bexleyheath, responded to the Bishop's demands with some typical Tory weasel words.

"I think tight immigration controls are in the national interest because we have already got 60 million people living on an overcrowded island" he said. Perhaps Mr. Townsend and his party might then consider introducing some 'tight immigration controls'!

The Bishop of Rochester is a clergyman who can be relied on to have his finger on the pulse of fashion. He used to be a Marxist, and more recently called for people to read the Koran. Naturally his demands for more immigrants to be allowed into Britain have nothing to do with his racial origins - he simply wants to help employers!

Flag of St. George banned by Council

LABOUR Enfield Council shamed Britain recently when they refused to fly the Flag of St. George from the Civic Centre. Leading Councillors said the flag would pander to racial nationalism.

Thousands of people paraded through the Town Centre on St. George's Day recently - passing the Civic Centre which flies the Cypriot flag!

The deputy leader of the Council, Richard Course, said it was his personal decision to ban the flag, and accused those who wished it to be seen of being 'right-wing extremists'. "I do not wish to pander to them" he said.

The local Enfield Advertiser offered to buy the council a Flag of St. George, since it does not own one. Councillor Course said he would not accept it.

One local Tory said she was thinking of appealing to the European Court of Human Rights over the ban, but another Tory admitted they did not fly the flag either, and called for a 'celebration of all cultures'.

The Labour ban brought a flood of complaining letters to the local newspaper. One said: "It never ceases to amaze me how much the powers that be allow other ethnic groups to celebrate their origins, while encouraging the English to almost be ashamed of their national identity." Another resident wrote: "I am sick to death of people like Richard Course. No longer can my children say certain nursery rhymes, now they are not allowed to honour their own flag."

Residents in the area have been up in arms recently about the Labour Council's plans for a huge multicultural festival.

Union Jack banned by Labour Council for 'noisy flapping'

A LABOUR COUNCIL has refused permission for the Union Jack to be flown on VE Day.

Warwickshire Council say the flag would make too much noise flapping in the breeze on Whitnash Village Green - to the disgust of local veterans who will be joined by visitors from France and Germany for a march-past on the big day.

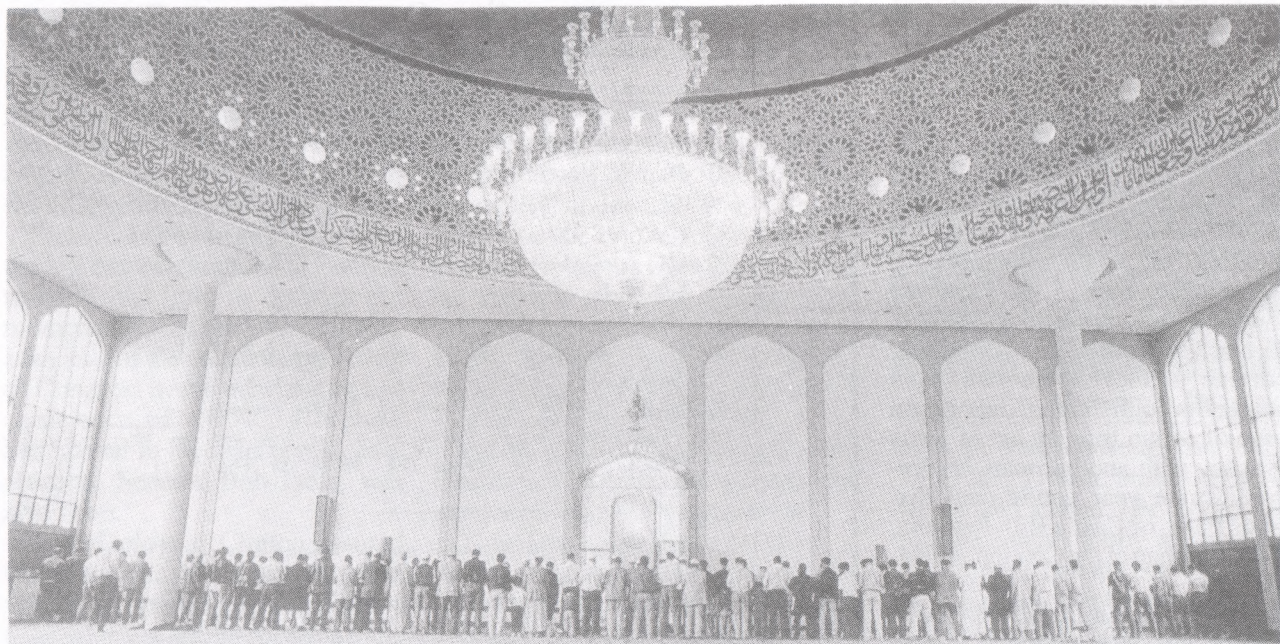

The organisers were told by the Council that permission would be needed to erect flagpoles, and applied well in advance of the August commemorations. They were astonished when the Labour Council turned them down, prompting talk of a rebellion in the picturesque village with its 14th. century church.

Labour Councillor Bob Crowther said flagpoles would be 'detrimental to the residential amenity of the area. Noise nuisance could be created in windy weather'.

"We must be the only place in the country which cannot fly the flag on VE day" said local Tory Bernard Kirton. Three 18 foot flagpoles were to have been erected with the flags of Germany, France, and Great Britain.

TO THE POINT

REGENT'S PARK MOSQUE: Britain's biggest mosque was financed by Saudi Arabia and built on land given free by the Crown. Now white people cannot walk by in safety and the police describe it as a 'no-go area'.

Last Sunday we were walking down Regent's Park Road, one of us wearing shorts and a sleeveless shirt. As we passed the Regent's Park Mosque an Arab man came up to us and said: "You filthy white slut!" We informed the police because we thought it threatening and offensive.

The desk policeman was not surprised and described the stretch near the mosque as a no-go area. He said that the Crown Prosecution Service is not sympathetic towards any racist incident directed against a non-minority. He said if we had abused the man because of colour we could easily have been prosecuted. Surely threatening behaviour is wrong, regardless of colour or race?

Why is it acceptable for this man to say our summer clothes offend him, but not for us to object to the Arab custom of covering up? It is not as if we tried to enter the mosque dressed inappropriately. I resent the implication that we must change our dress or walk a different way to the park.

POLITICALLY CORRECT BRITAIN ... POLITICALLY CORRECT BRITAIN ... POLITICALLY CORRECT BRITAIN ...

BN BRIEFING

PRESS OFFICE DIARY

Few BN readers will be aware of the work of the British National Party's Press Office, or of the opportunity which staffing it gives to feel undercurrents which are often not apparent from the public face of the controlled media.

The range of media outlets which approach the Press Office for comment and interviews is astonishingly wide, not only covering the length and breadth of Britain, but all over the world.

In the weeks before the issue of this edition of BN, coverage for the BNP included Mexican Television, South African Radio, who felt that there was no hope left for whites in South Africa, and the Australian version of the US 'Sixty Minutes' TV programme.

Sometimes decisions have to be made to refuse to appear on programmes when it is apparent that there is no intention other than to 'set up' the BNP. Such decisions are made reluctantly, since the whole point of the Press Office is to win coverage for our party. Anyone who still believes that the media are there to fairly inform people should try dealing with some TV companies!

A classic example was a recent episode of the Esther Rantzen show which asked for a BNP representative, and promised a 'fair debate on immigration'. The Press Office managed to extract the truth from the television company. Two-thirds of the audience were to be Asian, and the rest members of extreme-left wing organisations! The whole purpose was to suggest to viewers that no one in the country agrees with the BNP.

If journalists find they can get away with this kind of thing with any group they will continue to mete out the same treatment. In the long run it is best to forgo coverage of this kind unless there are no other possibilities of gaining publicity - something which no longer applies to the BNP, which is mentioned everywhere.

Among journalists there has, however, been a striking change in private attitude during the last year. Many will tacitly admit to agreeing with much we say. Even some BBC journalists complain that they and their colleagues are sick of 'political correctness' - one complained about the number of immigrant children in his local school.

BENEFIT OFFICES TO BE PUT IN MOSQUES!

COUNCIL OFFICIALS in Middlesbrough say that Asians are not getting enough benefits - and plan to build offices inside mosques. The Council wants to make absolutely sure no claims for tax or housing benefits are missed out.

Experts are being lined up to attend the new offices at mosques, Sikh temples, and community centres. The new plans have provoked a storm of protest. Cleveland Tory MP Tim Devlin said: "This is ridiculous. I've no doubt they will next be sending a benefits team to the newly-opened Irish pub next to the town's bus station."

Principal Benefits Officer Brendan Brown hit back. "Asians are under-represented among claimants" he said

"We will have Urdu and Punjabi speaking advisers for the benefits team." A stunned council worker later described the Council's mosque plans as 'nonsense'.

The council say that Asians make up 5.5% of the cities population, and have difficulty filling in forms. Only half make claims.

RESETTLEMENT

BN shares Middlesbrough Council's wish to see immigrants making benefit claims. The ones we wish to see them making, however, are claims for the generous resettlement grants, which a BNP Government will provide to allow them to return to their own countries.

GOLLY HORROR AGAIN!

NEW OUTRAGE AS GOLLYWOG APPEARS IN SHOP WINDOW

EDINBURGH was hit by renewed outrage recently after an auction house broke all the strict rules of 'political correctness' by displaying a gollywog in its window. Philip The Gollywog (left) appeared in the window after being put up for sale - but was quickly removed after complaints. 60-year-old Philip, seen above with his new friend Good Golly, and new owner Felix Sear, has now been given pride of place in Melrose's teddy bear museum - in the window fronting the High Street. The gollywog was invented by American illustrator Florence Upton in 1895. Her first golly now lives happily at Chequers, the Prime Minister's country residence, and at 100-years-old is clearly due for a telegram from the Queen! Jenners store in Edinburgh was hit by complaints about selling gollies last January.

Council Tenants To Be Thrown Out For 'Unwanted Looks'

LOONY-LEFT Greenwich Council, which once sacked a childminder for owning a gollywog, is at it again. A new Council code sets out behaviour which can cause tenants to be thrown out of their homes.

The new rules against harassment of other tenants include not only such things as making unreasonable noise, or throwing rubbish over balconies, but plenty more worthy of one of the barmiest extreme-left wing councils in Britain.

Tenants, and their visitors, are barred from doing anything which in the 'opinion of the Council' causes distress as a result of 'sexual orientation' or racial origin.

Harassment, the Council says, can include 'unwelcome or unwanted looks', and 'complaints about cultural differences such as the food people cook or their extended families'.

The only safe way to live in barmy Greenwich is apparently never to speak to anyone, or look at anyone! The slightest look might possibly be construed as 'unwelcome', and who knows what innocent comment might be thought a complaint about 'cultural differences' or 'sexual orientation'. Best not mention drugs dealing, for example, or child molesting - you could be thrown out of your home!

Greenwich's rules for tenants are an admission of what anyone with the slightest common sense can see. Multi-racialism and multi-culturalism simply does not work, and the whole sorry mess can only be temporarily held together by more and more oppressive rules to silence objections.

Plain tales of life in Britain

'CLOSE CHRISTIAN RADIO' DEMAND HOMOSEXUALS

HOMOSEXUALS have called for the closure of Britain's first Christian radio station - just two days after it began broadcasting. Lesbian and gay protesters say that the new Premier Radio's editorial policy is 'inflammatory'.

Premier Radio's Chief Executive, Peter Meadows, fell foul of militant perverts by saying that 'same sex genital activity is outside God's plan and therefore wrong'. Even worse, Mr. Meadows said that people who pursued a homosexual lifestyle would be unlikely to feature in the London radio station's programmes.

The 'Lesbian and Gay Christian Movement' swung into action following Mr. Meadow's outrage against 'politically correct' and obligatory proselytising of homosexuality. The perverts have written to the Radio Authority demanding withdrawal of the station's licence. They say that the restrictions on encouraging homosexuality and lesbianism are 'totally unacceptable' and biased against the treatment of perverts with 'proper respect'.

The General Secretary of the LGCM, homosexual Richard Kirker, says: "There is much potential for abuse in bolstering bigotry if the station is permitted to become an anti-gay broadcaster." BN wonders what abuse Mr. Kirker is talking about. Is it perhaps the perversion of 18-year-old boys by predatory adult homosexuals - something now perfectly legal since the Tories changed the law in 1994 to allow it?

SPREADING THE WORD

British National Party Handbook on PROPAGANDA

SPREADING THE WORD is a handbook on propaganda that has just been produced by the British National Party to supplement its Activists' Handbook, published last year. Spreading the Word is illustrated and runs to 60 pages. It contains five sections, namely: (1) General Principles of Propaganda; (2) Recruitment; (3) Canvassing for Elections; (4) Speaking to the Media; and (5) Speaking from the Platform and Presentation of Party Meetings.

This handbook devotes special attention to familiar enemy smears against the BNP and nationalists generally, advising the reader on the best techniques for dealing with these, whether they be raised in the process of trying to recruit new members, when canvassing voters on the doorstep or when taking part in interviews with the press, radio or television. The handbook is a mine of information on every problem involved in spreading the nationalist message and winning support for the BNP. It costs £1.50 plus 36p p&p.

Why Britain detests the Tories

Former Conservative Party Treasurer Lord McGowan recently said that it would be a great pity if the Tories lost the next general election. This is a statement of the sort that we hear so often from the Tory mouthpiece, the Sunday Times. Why are so many people now deserting the Tories? We suggest the following reasons:

- Their abandonment of British national sovereignty and their shameful manufacturing of the 'European Union'.
- Their almost total destruction of the manufacturing base upon which British prosperity has depended.
- Their failure to control immigration and their reluctance to bring in the British people to the aid of the unemployed.
- Their failure to control the money supply and their consequent inflation.
- Their failure to control the money supply and their consequent inflation.

DEFEND BRITAIN'S FISHERMEN!

Britain's commercial fishing industry has been the victim of successive Labour and Tory governments. Both of which are committed to the European Community. The European Community allows foreign fishing boats to fish in British waters. This has led to the destruction of our fishing industry. Britain's fishermen are being driven out of business. We demand that the British Government should take action to protect our fishing industry. We demand that the British Government should take action to protect our fishing industry.

FOREIGN NEWS

US GIVES $3BN A YEAR IN AID TO ISRAEL

THE UNITED STATES currently gives $3bn. (£1.9bn) in foreign aid to Israel each year - three times the amount given to the entire continent of Africa and 20% of the entire aid budget.

No other country receives so much from the United States, and the huge grant is maintained by the most effective political lobby in the US, the American-Israeli Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC).

President Clinton's absence from the VE day celebrations in London recently had little to do with our relationship with the United States. Like half of the entire membership of Congress he attended the annual conference of AIPAC. His most likely rival in the next presidential election, Senator Bob Dole, was also there.

Both Dole and Clinton assured delegates that the grant to Israel would be maintained. Despite the huge deficit in public spending - the most important issue in US politics, with education, health, and welfare all facing the axe - no politician from either the Republican or Conservative parties has dared to suggest any reduction in the payment to Israel.

A Republican senator who chairs the Senate Appropriations Committee, Mitch McConnell, recently called for a reduction in the $1bn-a-year grant to African countries. Aid to Israel was, however, sacrosanct he said. At the last election the senator received over $200,000 in election assistance from pro-Israel groups and individual Jews.

AIPAC monitors the voting records and public statements of US politicians, and directs Jewish donors towards those who support the Israeli cause.

Every US politician is well aware of what happened to Senator Charles Percy during the 1980s. He won awards from Jewish groups for his support while a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. When he unwisely started to ask questions about Israeli behaviour on the West Bank, AIPAC organised a nationwide leaflet campaign denouncing him as Israel's worst enemy.

Percy was defeated in the 1984 elections after money flowed into the campaign chest of his opponent.

Tom Dine, the then president of AIPAC, said in a speech: "All the Jews in America, from coast to coast, gathered to oust Percy. And American politicians got the message".

Jim Zogbi, president of the Arab-American Institute, likened Percy's treatment to "shooting a dog and putting it on your lawn with a message saying 'Don't mess with us'. Congressmen still say: 'I won't become the next Chuck Percy'."

In a speech to AIPAC during April Newt Gingrich, Speaker of the House of Representatives, said: "You are the most effective general interest group for an American foreign assistance programme on the planet. If you did exist we would have to invent you."

Edward Tivnan, author of a book on AIPAC called The Lobby, says that the Jewish lobby in America is more Israeli than the Israelis, and that it is what they want to hear that interests Dole and Gingrich with a presidential election not far off.

■ A storm has broken out in France over the publication, in the mass circulation L'Express magazine, of an article which claims that the building, shown as a gas chamber to tourists visiting Auschwitz, is a fake.

The magazine, comparable to the US Time, said that the building was put up three years after the war by Polish Communists, and that 'everything about it is fake'.

L'Express risks prosecution under the recent Fabius-Gayssot Law which makes it an offence to deny the Holocaust. The magazine says that the authorities at Auschwitz have admitted that the building is fake, but tourists will continue to see it without any changes.

"For the time being we're going to leave it as it is and just be vague to visitors. It's just too complicated" said deputy director of Auschwitz Museum Krystyna Olesky.

The British historian David Irving was fined DM30,000 and banned from Germany in 1993 for making a similar claim to that of L'Express. Professor Robert Faurisson also said that the building was fake in 1976, and was subsequently subjected to a reign of terror by opponents.

BRITISH NATIONALIST NEEDS YOUR HELP!

BRITISH NATIONALIST is pleased to announce that sales are at record levels, thanks largely to increasing bulk orders by local units.

The massive influx of new members since the election of Derek Beackon in September 1993 has also boosted circulation, thanks to the greatly increased number of subscriptions by individual members and supporters of the BNP.

One thing which readers constantly request is more news about BNP activities up and down the country. Despite local party activity being at its highest level since the formation of the BNP, some units are still not letting us know of their good work! Units should send us regular reports, together with any photos and press cuttings.

Readers perform an invaluable service by sending us national, international, and local press cuttings, and other items. Local papers often cover issues suppressed in the national press. We have as a result been able to expose corrupt Labour councillors. Items of local news are often of great importance in building up a national picture of what is happening. Please do not mark press cuttings, excepting the date and name of newspaper (if not shown) since this may prevent reproduction in BN.

Please help us by keeping those news items rolling in!

LEICESTER BNP BACK RESIDENTS IN 'TRAVELLERS' DISPUTE

EAST MIDLANDS BNP have attracted headlines with their campaign to support residents who do not want a permanent travellers site near their homes. The site for itinerants is planned by Leicester City Council - riding roughshod over overwhelming local opposition. 2,500 local people demonstrated against the plan for the encampment at Castle Hill Park near Thurcaston. The usual rubbish about 'racism' was thrown about to deter perfectly reasonable objections to anti-social elements being dumped on the community. As BNP publicity material rightly put it 'It is not the responsibility of local taxpayers to provide facilities for 'travellers' who do not want to be members of British society and who do not contribute to it'.

County councillor is slated by BNP for a scapegoat to blame for our activity in the area. "Villagers must not blame the Conservatives but should blame the BBC - What utter nonsense! "I don't care that Coun. Brock and others prefer to bury their heads in the green-wedge of the Castle Hill Park."

MAKES A CHANGE! The Loughborough Echo says BNP slate another party. Usually it is BNP slated etc. etc.

Surrey BNP's Day of Action in Dorking

SURREY BNP held a successful Day of Action in Dorking early in June. Over twenty BNP members distributed leaflets and sold BN in the Town Centre for several hours. The BN headline 'Deport Drug Dealers' attracted quiet approval from local police.

A large number of leaflets were handed out to shoppers, in particular the 'Why Britain detests the Tories' leaflet, which attracted a lot of interest from locals. Dorking has few immigrants yet, but plenty of the other problems which the whole country is experiencing after years of Tory rule.

New 'Free Private Clegg' Leaflet

A NEW 'Free Private Clegg' leaflet has been issued and has (STOP PRESS!) already made headlines in Aldershot.

The leaflet is being distributed in areas where support for Private Clegg is expected to be particularly strong - particularly those with a military connection or close to military bases.

Private Clegg is being used as a pawn in shameless Government appeasement of the IRA - who are already threatening a return to bombings if they do not get their way, and say that there is no question of surrendering their huge stockpile of arms.

YOUR LETTERS

Write to: The Editor, British Nationalist, PO Box 117, Welling, Kent DA16 3DW

Sir:

Since I am very interested in Britain's canals, I listened to a series of radio programmes recently in which the BBC accompanied a narrowboat from Liverpool to London.

Passing through Birmingham a young member of the ethnic minorities was interviewed and asked what he did. "I hustle" was the reply. When asked what that meant he said "The state pays you one wage and you earn another." No wonder the Government is bankrupt!

Also in Birmingham a small business was asked about its activities. The proprietor explained that buyers from countries like India and Pakistan visit the UK and when a factory closes they bid just above scrap value for the machinery and have it shipped home.

The firm in question was in the business of crating and shipping the equipment. The owner said straight out that it was insane to let all this equipment leave the country. It is all solid, reliable, well made machinery which will run forever if maintained, and is easy to repair.

Mr. S.C. Henning, Bournemouth, Hants

Sir:

I saw a talk show on TV recently in which the boxer Mohammed Ali was interviewed by Michael Parkinson.

I have never heard such drivel. The obnoxious Ali could not be shut up, and repeatedly insulted Parkinson, his race, and his country.

White television presenters and newsreaders are being gradually replaced by black ones, and all new programmes, dramas, and series made in Britain now feature blacks in responsible positions in which their intelligence and honesty shine out.

We have a three episode programme about Kenya on TV at the moment with a message about how much better their society is than ours. I wonder how long it will be before those badly acted, corny, Asian films are moved to peak viewing times.

We must all unite in complaining to Points of View - it won't be broadcast but at least we would be telling them what we think.

Mr. R. Sollory, Ripon, Yorks

Sir:

The 50th anniversary of VE day has caused many of us to reflect on the sad state of our country today.

When we think of the Coronation in 1953, the New Elizabethan Age as it was called, we think of the pride we had in being British. Today the Spanish, French, and Germans have more national pride than us.

All the main parties have failed us. 62% of the electorate did not even bother to vote during the recent local elections.

Nothing is ever the responsibility of John Major - nothing to do with him!

MORE READERS WANTED!

British Nationalist is starting a new drive to increase its circulation - and your help is needed!

As every BN reader knows, the media in Britain bend over backwards to make white people feel isolated and friendless. The importance of your British Nationalist in sending out a message of hope to the beleaguered British people can hardly be exaggerated.

You can help widen our readership in many ways. Why not pass on or lend your monthly copy to a friend or colleague after you have read it?

Better still why not buy two copies each month and give one away? It only costs an extra 7.5p per week! Many BN readers post copies to those who might like to see them - local organisations for example. It is surprising how many people get to see BN in this way!

Even better, why not start a paper round among friends and colleagues? There are literally millions of people in Britain who would buy BN if it were easily available.

Your BN is the leading patriotic publication in the country, already far out selling its competitors. The potential for huge sales is limitless. Think of the effect on membership and support for the BNP if nearly everyone in the country could see it!

Every reader young or old can make sure at least one extra copy reaches someone - it can be sent on anonymously if you are concerned about your privacy.

I don't want to vote Labour - they have forgotten ordinary people just like the other parties.

The country is a dunghill with little cocks crowing on it.
Mr. P. Cole, Heaton, Newcastle-on-Tyne

Sir:

Following the local elections it is fair to say that the Tories are on the way out. Labour will inherit an infrastructure on the verge of bankruptcy, and it does not possess the acumen to resolve the nation's problems.

Britain produces little, and is confined to the world's rubbish. Our becoming a third-world country is now only a decade away - the writing is on the wall.

We continue to see Private Clegg stuck in prison to appease the Republic of Ireland and the US Irish.

Mr. W. Jeffreys, Birmingham

Sir:

The Sunday Post in Scotland recently reported a vicious racist attack on white schoolchildren by Asian thugs.

The Maxwell press, however, ignored the attack. The Sunday Mail and Daily Record's bigots shrieked at the BNP and its members, but their one-sided morality will not allow them to offer any serious criticism of the awful anti-white racism which is growing here in Glasgow.

Is it an offence to have white skin amongst newspaper staff in this part of Britain? The answer seems to be yes. Self-hatred is raising its ugly head amongst journalists in Britain. They should be ashamed.

Mr. H. Mullin, Glasgow, Scotland

NEW BURTON BRANCH ON WAY

A NEW Burton Unit of the BNP is in process of formation - attracting massive publicity in the local Burton Mail. The unit is being formed in response to growing interest and support for the party in the area. Local party members have been helped recently by Stoke BNP in regular activities including leafletting the town and surrounding district, including Newhall and Midway.

Interest in the party has been growing steadily throughout the area, and it will soon be possible to establish a formal branch in this part of Staffordshire.

PUBLICITY

As is customary the local media joined with anti-British organisations, and discredited South Derbyshire MP Edwina Currie, in a chorus of complaint! The publicity simply indicates the degree to which the BNP is regarded as a threat by the gang who now control Britain, and run it against the interests and wishes of its own people.

Mrs. Currie recently made the scale of her commitment to local people very clear by trying to become an MEP - and failing. She is prominent in the campaign to lower the age of homosexual consent to 16. How are parents supposed to feel knowing that their 16-year-old children are available to predatory adult homosexuals and that they cannot even call in the police?

SCRAPHEAP

Mrs. Currie said that anyone at all was welcome in Britain as far as she was concerned provided they were willing to work. As the BNP has constantly pointed out, Tory promises to stop immigration are a total deception. The Tory policy is to import cheap labour for the benefit of the few, and throw British people on the scrapheap. Mrs. Currie should be commended for her honesty in telling the truth about her party's policies, when so many of her colleagues will not.

MEETING

South Derbyshire Council leader Alan Lewis droned on in the local paper about there being no interest in the BNP within the area. Mr. Lewis is clearly unaware of the utter disillusion with the main political parties throughout Britain. A very successful meeting was held by the BNP in the town centre of Burton recently.

Burton is typical of so many areas of the country where the BNP's message of hope now receives warm support. Some years ago it was difficult to generate interest in many places, but the country is now waking up to the dreadful realities of decades of disastrous government, and looking for a new message - from the BNP!

BNP plans to set up a unit 'in the very near future'

EXTREMISTS TARGET TOWN

MP attacks BNP plans

• Mrs Edwina Currie
... BNP should steer clear of her.

South Derbyshire MP Mrs Edwina Currie has attacked plans by the extreme British National Party to set up a formal unit in Burton coupled with a recruitment drive in Newhall.

The far right BNP claims there has been an upsurge of interest in the party following a meeting in Burton.

Members from Stoke and Burton have also been leafletting homes in Newhall and Midway.

But Mrs Currie joined a chorus of condemnation of the BNP's activities, warning them to steer clear of her if they were recruiting in South Derbyshire.

She said: "I have no time for fascists and I would be very surprised if they found any support in South Derbyshire, especially Newhall. South Derbyshire is a very tolerant place, I have always found.

"My view is that anyone is welcome here as long as they are prepared to work. I have no time for people who do not — even if they can trace their English roots back for centuries."

Mr Amir Kabal, director of East Staffordshire Racial Equality Council, said ethnic communities in Burton would be concerned about the prospect of a BNP presence in the town.

"The problems associated with such an organisation in places like London and Derby are well-known," said Mr Kabal.

And South Derbyshire Council leader Councillor Alan Lewis said residents would be angry the BNP was targeting Newhall.

The far right British National Party is planning to set up a "formal" unit in Burton.

EMERGENCY APPEAL: TARGET NOW £14,544.00

Last month there was a drop in contributions to the special emergency appeal launched in April by the British National Party. A further £529.68 was received towards the fund's target figure of £20,000. This leaves £14,544.00 still to be raised. We must do better this coming month.

The fund has been necessitated by party finances sinking to a low level due to a big fall in donations coming into general funds over a few months. The main factor causing this was the vitally important Legal Fund, to which party supporters responded generously. The sacrifices made towards the Legal Fund left those supporters unable to contribute much to general funds. Now that the Legal Fund has been closed, the BNP must urgently refill its coffers for ordinary expenditure, which is steadily mounting.

The party would like to thank all those who have sent in contributions to the emergency appeal. There is still, however, a long way to go. For the future, all those sending in money should address it to: BNP General Fund and post it to PO Box 117, Welling, Kent DA16 3DW.

A little misunderstanding has arisen due to the fact that some donors expected receipts for their contributions and did not receive them. To reduce the strain on the BNP administration and its postage bill, we have made it a rule that receipts will only be sent for contributions of £10.00 or over — unless requested with an SAE enclosed. Please forgive the omission of this information from previous appeals. We should also explain that, due to administrative pressure, some receipts for contributions of £10.00 or over have gone out later than would normally be desired.

Woking BNP sets the pace

ONE of the hardest working units in the BNP is Woking & District - well known for quietly setting an example for other party units to follow.

Woking & District Organiser Paul Henderson has been as busy as ever recently, not only carrying out local activities but also taking his team to help in other areas.

During April the unit held a meeting in Woking which was addressed by National Organiser Richard Edmonds, and a lecturer from a British University, who holds a doctorate in history. He addressed the well attended local meeting on the subject of 'Nationalism and Internationalism'. £100 was raised for the BNP's Emergency Appeal.

The unit has also been out leafletting local areas, and has assisted in the production of the new 'Free Private Clegg' leaflet.

The unit also makes sure it gets letters into the local papers - something which needs more attention by some branches of the party. A good letter, putting across the BNP's viewpoint, distributes our ideas into most homes for just the price of a stamp.

What we stand for

- The establishment of a government of national unity that will put an end to nationally divisive party warfare; the return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs.
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation.
- British withdrawal from the European Community: trade with Europe where it suits us but no political ties.
- The disbanding of the multi-racial Commonwealth and its replacement by a new Commonwealth of self-governing white states.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources.
- Protection of British industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- An end to the financial swindle that causes inflation and slump, and its replacement by a sane and fair financial system that will give the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce.
- The subordination of the power of the City to the power of Government, and the harnessing of the City to the needs of British industry.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food; also the restoration of the fishing industry by protection of our traditional fishing grounds.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people — the protection of our countryside and an end to the architectural disfigurement of our towns and cities.
- Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and the sacking of 'trendy' teachers.
- An alternative defence strategy: withdrawal from NATO; closure of all foreign military and air bases in Britain; British withdrawal from the war in former Yugoslavia, where no British interest is at stake; the bringing home of British forces from Germany; the strengthening of Britain's defences and a position of armed neutrality.
- An end to overseas aid and the allocation of the money saved to the financing of repatriation and greater help for the needy at home.
- The crushing of the IRA, and the termination of the Anglo-Irish agreement and firm support for the loyalist majority in Northern Ireland.
- A return to healthy moral values aimed at strengthening the family and community.
